THE PROTECTION OF WISDOM.

History tells us that in the old days before the coming of Christ the heathen had invented for themselves, not one god, but n lot of gods, one for each good or bad quality that they saw in themselves. One of their goddesses, for instance, was Athena, the goddess of Wisdom. She was supposed to take care of all the wise people, and to give wisdom to some people, and to see to it that there was not too much foolishness. But, of course, she was always being attacked by fools, and lazy people and the gods of foolishuess and laziness and such like. But she was safe, because she had a great shield, such as warriors carried, and it was such a fine shield that none of their shots or arrows could get past it to hurt her. That shield was called the Palladium, and it is famous la history, because it was the best shield ever heard of.

Now the American people have a possession as precious as wisdom is and it is a possession that is always in danger of being attacked and, if it were possible, it would be destroyed. That possession is our liberty. And it is attacked by greed and selfishness and the ambition of had politicious and the grasping of trusts, and every thing in our eivilization.

And the American people have a Palladium, which is the best ever devised by men-it is called "Freedom of the press." The poor people have to defend themselves, but the newspaper, or the press, is their shield, for it is all the time turning uside the wespons of the evil by warning the people. And it works perfectly—so long as it does not get into the control of the wrong side. Then it lies, and it leaves the people more or less unprotected.

Every good citizen will rend the newspaper and walch that he learns from it all the attacks that are being made on his liberty. And he will watch too, and see that it is a true paper he reads, and not one that has got into the lands of people who would have something to gain if part of his liberty could be taken away. And he will read his paper carefully and carefully choose what paper he will read. Are you doing this?

SYNOPSIS. Murray Sinclair and his gang of wreckers were cailed out to clear the railroad tracks at Smoky Creek. McCloud, a young road superintendent, caught Sinclair and his men in the act of looting the wrecked train. Sinclair pleaded innocence, declaring it only amounted to a small sum—a treat for the men. McCloud discharged the whole outfit and ordered the wrecking burned. McCloud became acquainted with Dicksie Dunning, a girl of the west, who came to look at the wreck, "Whispering" Gordon Smith told President Bucks of the railroad, of McCloud's brave fight against a gang of crazed miners and that was the reason for the superintendent's appointment to his office. McCloud arranged board at the boarding house of Mrs. Sinclair, the ex-foreman's deserted wife. Dicksie Dunning was the daughter of the late Richard Dunning, who had died of a broken heart shortly after his wife's demise, which occurred after one year of married life. Smoky Creek bridge was mysteriously burned. President Bucks notified Smith that he had work ahead. A slock train was wrecked by an open awitth. Later a passenger train was held up and the express car robbed. Two men of a posse pursuing the bandits were killed. "Whispering Smith" approached Sinclair. He tried to buy him off, but failed. He warned McCloud that his life was in danger. McCloud was carried forcibly into Lance Dunning's presence. Dunning refused the railroad a right-of-way, be had already signed for. Dicksie interfered to prevent a shooting affray. Dicksie met McCloud on a ionely trail to warn him his life was in danger. On his way home a shot passed through his hat. A sudden rise of the Crawling Stone river crealed consternation. Dicksie and Marion specially wounded. He accused Whispering Smith of having attoien her box from him. The French idea la to bring about the abolition of the harmful practice of imbibing absinthe and other baneful liqueurs, but chiefly absinthe. The ravagea and ruin wrought by this seductive liquid must be in reality frightful, else the enthusiasm for its suppression could never have gained such headway or been embraced by so many respectable and influential people. With beer and light winea they have no sort of quarrel.

Expenses, Regulations, Opening Days.

Berea College is not a money-making institution. All the money received from students is paid out for their benefit, and the School expende on an average upon each student about fifty dollars a year more than he pays in. This great deficit is made up by the gifts of Christian and patriotic people who are supporting Berea in order that it may train young men and women for lives of usefulness.

OUR SCHOOL IS LIKE A FAMILY, with careful regulations to proteot the character and reputation of the young people. Our students come from the best families and are earnest to do well and improve. For any who msy be sick the College provides doctor and nurse without extra charge.

All except those with parents in Berea live in College buildings, and assist in work of boarding hall, farm and sbops, receiving valuable training, and getting pay according to the value of their labor. Except in winter it is expected that all will have a chance to earn as much as 35 cents a week. Some who need to earn more may, by writing to the Secretary before coming, secure extra employment so as to earn from 50 cents to one dollar a week.

PERSONAL EXPENSES for clothing, laundry, postage, books, etc., vary with different people. Berea favors plain clothing. but as students must attend classes regardless of the weather, warm wraps and underclothing, ambrellas and overshoes, are necessary. The Co-operaent success in this country, as long as tive Store furnishes books, tollet articles, work uniforms, umbrellas and other necessary articles at cost.

LIVING EXPENSES are really below cost. The College asks no rent WHY FRANCE IS PROSPEROUS for the fine hulldings in which students live, charging only enough room rent to pay for cleaning, repairs, fuel, lights, and washing of bedding and towels. For table board, without coffee or extras, $1.35 a week in the fall, and $1.50 in winter. For room, furnished, fuel, lights, washing of bedding, 40 cents a week in fall and spring, 50 cents in winter, SCHOOL FEES are two. First a "Dollar Deposit," as guarantee for return of room key, library books, etc. This is paid but once, and is returned when the student departs.

Second an "incidental Fee" to help on expenses for care of school buildings, hospital library, etc. (Students pay nothing for tuition or services of teachers-all our instruction is a free gift). The incidental Fee for most students is $5.00 a term, $6 in Academy and Normal, and $7.00 in Colle-PAYMENT MUST BE IN ADVANCE, incidental fee and room rent by

On Incidental Fee, students excused before the middle of a term will recelve a certificate for one-half the incidental fee paid, which certificate will be received as cash by Berea College on payment of term bills by the stadent in person, or a brother or sister, if presented within four terms.

The first day of Fall term is September 15, 1909. The first day of Winter term is January 5, 1910.

After The Grippe

"I am much pleased, to be able to write and thank you for what Cardui has done for me," writes Mrs. Sarah J. Gilliland, of Siler City, N. C.

"Last February, I had the Grippe, which left me in bad shape. Before that, I had been bothered with female trouble, for ten years, and nothing seemed to cure it.

At last, I began to take Cardui. I have taken only three bottles, but it has done me more good than all the doctors or than any other medicine I ever took."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

For the after-effects of any serious illness, like the Grip, Cardui is the best tonic you can use. It builds strength, steadies the nerves, improves the appetite, regulates irregularities and helps bring back the natural glow of health. Cardui is your best friend, if you only knew it.

Think of the thousands of ladies whom Cardul has helped! What could possibly prevent it from helping you? Remember you cannot get the benefit of the Cardui ingredients in any other medicine, for they are not for sale in any drug store except in the Cardui bottle. Try Cardui. Solution to Problem No. 9.

Since 7200 cents is the product of two numbers whose multiplicand is twice that of its multiplier, we submit the following solution: 7200 divided by 2 equais 3600.

Sq. root of 3600 is 60, the multipiler. 7200 divided by 60 equals 120, the muitlplicand, hence 60 is the number of bushels sold and $1.20 the amount paid for them. $72.00 divided by 60 equals $1.20.

It is not so long ago that the text books on minerals used to describe quartz as "infusible." The electric furnace has given the lie to this specification, and now some manufacturers of chemical devices devote special catalogues to apparatus made of this auhstance. There are two grades on the market—the transparent kind, made from rock crystal and looking almost precisely like ordinary glass, and the cheaper translucent variety, mnde of common silica and aometimes called in the trade "electroquartz." Both kinds are valuable in the chemical lahoratory, hecause vessels made of either resist all acida hut hydrofluoric and cannot he cracked hy change of temperature, however violent. Latin America. One of the happiest svenie in recent Pan-American diplomacy was the pacific, independent settlement by the governments of Bolivia and Peru of a boundary difference between them, which for some weeks threatened to cause war and even to entrain embitterments affecting other republice less directly concerned. From various quarters, directly or indirectly concerned, the intermediation of the Uni-ted States was cought to assist in a ac-lution of the controversy. Desiring at all times to abstain from any undue mingling in the affairs of sister republics and having faith in the ability of the govern-ments of Peru and Bolivia themselves to settle their differences in a manner satisfactory to themselves which, viswed with factory to themselves which, viswed with megnsulmity, would assuage all embitterment, this government steadily abstained from being drawn into the controversy and was much gratified to find ite confidence justified by events.

On the ninth of July next there will open at Buenos Aires the fourth Pan-American conference. This conference will have a special meaning to the hearts.

will have a special meaning to the hearte of all Americans, because around its date are clustered the snniversaries of the independence of so mnny American republics. It is not necessary for me to remind the congress of the political, social and commercial importance of these gather-ings. You are asked to make liberal ap-propriation for our participation. If this be granted, it is my purpose to appoint a distinguished and representative delegation, qualified fittingly to represent this country and to deal with the problems of intercontinental interest which will there be discussed.

The Argentine Republic will also hold from May to November, 1910, at Buenos Aires, a great international agricultural at chapel: "Your conduct is an insult to the Almighty and keeps the canons whiting."

The young girl mentioned was had up before the magistrate by a farmer for killing one of his ducka with a stone. The case against her was quite to call, witnesses to prove that she price the interests concerned of the opportunity afforded by this exhibition, in which appropriate participation by this country is so desirable. The designation of an official representative is also receiv-

Since the Washington conventions of 1907 were communicated to the government of the United States as a consultng and advisory party, this government has been almost continuously called upon by one or another, and in turn by all of the five Central American republics, to twert itself for the maintenance of the ionventions. Nearly every complaint has been against the Zelaya government of Nicarsgua, which has kept Central Amer ca in constant tension and turmoli. The responses made to the representations of Central American republics, as due from the United States on account of ite rela-tion to the Washington conventions, have then st all times conservative and have twolded, so far as possible, any semblance if interference, although it is very apparant that the considerations of geographic proximity to the canal zone and of the substantial American interests Central America give to the United states a special position in the zone of these republica and the Caribbean sea.

I need not rehearse hera the patient efforts of this government to promote peace and welfare among these republies, efforts which are fully appreciated by the majority of them, who are loyal to their true interests. Department of State.

I sarnestly recommend to the favorable consideration of the congress the esable consideration of the congress the estimates submitted by the department of state and most especially the legislation suggested in the secretary of state's letter of this date, whereby it will be possible to develop and make permanent the reorganisation of the department upon modern lines in a manner to meke it a thoroughly efficient instrument in the furtherance of our foreign trade and the furtherance of our foreign trade and of American interests abroad. The plan to have divisions of Latin-American and Far-Eastern affairs and to institute a certain specialization in business with Europe and the near east will at once commend itself. These politico-geographical divisions and the detail from the diplomatic or consular service to the department of a number of men who bring to the study of complicated probleme in different parts of the world practical knowledge reactive sized. prartical knowledge recently gained on the spot, clearly is of the greatest ad-vantage to the eccretary of state in foreseeing conditions likely to arise and in conducting the great variety of corre-spondence and negotiation. It should be remembered that such facilities exist in the foreign offices of all the leading commercial nations and that to deny them to the eacretary of state would be to place this government at a great disad-vantage in the rivairy of commercial ompetition.

The consular service has been im proved under the law of April 5, 1986, and the executive order of June 27, 1996, and I commend to your consideration the question of embodying in a statute the principles of the present executive order upon which the efficiency of our consular service is wholly dependent. service is wholly dependent.

Expenditures and Revenues.

Perhaps the most important question presented to this administration is that of economy in expenditures and sumciency of revenue. The deficit of the last fiscal year, and the certain deficit of the current year, prompted congress to throw a greater responsibility on the executive and the secretary of the treasury than had heretofore been declared by statute. This declaration imposes upon the secretary of the treasury tho duty of assembling all the estimatrs of the executive departments bureaus and offices of the expenditures necessary in the ensuing fiscal year and of making an estimate of the reve nues of the government for the same period; and if a probable deficit is thus ahown, it is made the duty of the president to recommend the method by which such deficit can be met. The report of the accretary shows that the ordinary expenditures for the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, will exceed the estimated receipts by $34,075,620. If to this deficit is added the sum to be disbursed for the Panama Canal, amounting to $38,000,000, and $1,000,000 to be paid on the public debt, the deficit of ordinary receipts and expenditures will be increased to a total deficit of $73.075,620. This def-ieit the secretary proposes to meet by the proceeds of bends issued to pay the cost of constructing the Panama Canal. I approve this proposel.

In order to avoid a deficit for the ensuing fiscal year, I directed the heads of departments in the preparation of their estimates to make them as low as possible consistent with lmperativa governmental necessity.

Civil Pensions.

I am aware that there is a strong feeling in both houses of congress, and possibly in the country, against the establishment of civil pensions, and that this has naturally grown out of the heavy burden of military pensions, which it has always been the policy of our government to assume; but am strongly convinced that no other practical solution of the difficulties presented by the supersunuation of civil servante can be found than that of a system of civil pensions.

Frauds in the Collection of Cuatoma. I regret to refer to the fact of the discovery of extensive francis in the collection of the customs revenue at New York city, in which a number of tha sabordinate employes in the weigh ing and other departments were di-rectly concerned, and in which the beneficiaries were the American Sugar Refining Company and others. The frauds consisted in the payment of duty on underweights of sugar. The government has recovered from the American Sugar Refining Company all that It is shown to have been defraudthat it is shown to have been defraud-ed of. The sum was received in full of the amount due, which might have been recovered by civil suit sgainst the beneficiary of the fraud, but there was an express reservation in tha contract of settlement by which the settle-ment should not interfere with, or prevent the criminal prosecution of every who was found to be subject to tha same. Criminal prosecutions are now pro ceeding against a number of the gov-ernment officers. The treasury de-partment and the department of jus-tice are exerting every effort to dietice are exerting every effort to discover all the wrongdoers, including the officers and employed of the companies who may lisve been privy to the fraud. It would seem to me that an investigation of the frauds by congress at present, pending the prohing hy the treasury department and the department of justice, as proposed, might by giving immunity and otherwise prove an embarrassment in securwise prove an embarrassment in secur-ing conviction of the guilty parties. The Tariff Act. Two features of the new tariff act call for special reference. By virtue of the clause known as the "maximum and minimum" clause, it is the duty of the executive to consider the laws and practices of other countries with reference to the importation into thosa countries of the products and mer-chandise of the United States, and if the executive finds auch laws and practices not to be unduly discriminatory against the United States, the minimum duties provided in the bill are to go into force. Unless the president makes such a finding, then the maximum duties are the president makes such a finding then the maximum duties provided by the bill the provided by the president makes such a finding then the maximum duties provided by the president makes and the provided by the president makes and the provided by the provide mum duties provided in the bill, that is, an increase of 25 per cent, ad valorem over the minimum duties are to he in force. Fear hes been expressed that this power conferred and duty imposed on the executive is likely to lead to a tariff war. I beg to express the hope and hellef that no such result neer be anticipated. The diacretion granted to the executive by the terms "unduly discriminatory" is wide. In order that the maximum duty shall be charged against the imports for the control of the control o the imports from a country, it is neces-sary that ha shall find on the part of that country not only discriminations in its laws or the practice under them against the trade of the United States, but that the discriminations found shall be undue; that is, without good and fair reason. I conceive that this power was reposed in the president with the hepa that the maximum duties might never be applied in any case. der of President Zelaya himself. They were officers in the organized forces of a revolution which was in control of about half of the republic, and as such, enabla tha president and the stets de-partment through friendly negetiation to secure the alimication from the laws and the practice under them of any forsign country of that which is unduly discriminatory. No one is seeking a tariff war or a condition in which the spirit af retaliation shall be aroused

Needs of the Navy.

The return of the battleship fleet from its voyaga around the world, in more efficient condition than when it started, was a notsworthy event of interest alike to our citisens and the naval authorities of the world. Besides the beneficial and far-reaching effect on our personal and diplomatio relations in the countries which the fleet visited, the marked sucesss of the ships in steaming around the world in all weathers in schedule time has increased respect for our navy and has added to our national prestige.

Injunctiona Without Notice The platform of the successful party is the last election contained the following:
"The Republican party will uphoid at all times the authority and integrity of the rourts, state and federal, and will sver insist that their powers to enforce their process and protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolnte. We believa, however, that the rules of procedure in the federel courts with respect to the issuance of the writ of injunction should be more accurately defined by statute and that no injunction fined by statute and that no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notics, except where irreparable injury would result from delay reparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted."

I recommend that in compliance with the promise thus made appropriate legislation be adopted. The ends of justice will best be met and the chief cause of complaint against ill-considered injunctions without notice will be removed by the enactment of a statute forbidding hereafter the issuing of any injunction or restraining order, whether temporary or restraining order, whether temporary or permanent, by any federal court, without pravious notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard on behalf of the opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties to be enjoined; unless it shail appear to the satisfaction of this rourt that the delay necessary to give such notice and hearing would result in irreparable injury to the complainant and unless also the court shall from the syldence make a written finding, which shail be spread upon the court minutes, that tunnediats and irreparable injury is likely to ensua to the complainant, and shall define the injury, state why it is irreparable shall also indorse on the order issued the shall also indorsa on the order issued the date and the hour of the issuance of the order. Moreover, every auch injurction or restraining order issued without pre-vious notice and opportunity by the de-fendant to be heard should by force of the statuts to expire and be of no effect after seven days from the issuance thereof or within any tima less than that period which the court may fix, unless within the injunction or order is sxtended or renewed after previous notice and conceptuality to be beared. and opportunity to be heard.

Second-Clasa Mall Matter.

The deficit every year in the post-file department is largely caused by tha low rate of postage of one cent a pound charged on second-class mail matter, which includes not only newspapers but magazinea and miscellaneous periodiculs. The actual less growing out of the trans-mission of this second-class mail matter et one cent a pound amounts to about $33,000,009 a year. The average cost of the transportation of this matter is more than nine cents a pound.

It appears that the average distance over which newspapers are delivered to their customers is 29t miles, while tha average had of magazines is 1,049, and miscellaneous periodicals 1.128 miles. Thus, the average haul of the magazine is three and one-half times and that of the miscellaneous periodical nearly four times the haul of the delly newspaper, yet all of them pay the same postage rate of one cent a pound. The stetistics of 1997 show that second-cless mail matter constituted 63.91 per cent, of the weight of ell the mail, and yielded only 5.19 per cent, of the revenue,

The figures given are startling, and show the payment by the government of an enormous subsidy to the newspapers, magasines and periodicals, and congress may well consider whether radical steps should not be taken to reduce the deficit in the postoffice department caused by this discrepancy between the actual cost of transportation and the compensatio

A great saving might be made, emountto much more than half of the loss imposing upon magazines end periodicals a higher rate of postage. They are much heavier than newspapers and contain a much higher proportion of advertising to reading matter, and the aver ege distance of their transportation three and a haif times as great.

Poatal Savings Banks. The second audject worthy of mention in the postoffice department is the real necessity and entire practicability of establishing postal savings banks. The auctional control of the second control of cessful party at the last election declared in favor of postal savings benka, and although the proposition finds opponents in many parts of the country, I am con-vinced that the people desira such banks and am sure that when the banks are fur nished they will be productive of the ut most good.

Favora Ship Subsidy. Following the course of my distin-guished predecessor, I carnestly recommend to congress the consideration and passage of a ship subsidy bill, looking to the establishment of lines between our Atlantic seeboard and the eastern coast nf South America, as well as lines from the west coest of the United States to South America, China, Japan and Philippines. The profits on foreign mails are perhaps a sufficient measure of the expenditures which might first be tenta-tively applied to this method of inducing American capital to undertake the estabishment of American lines of steamships in those directions in which we now feel it most important that we should have means of transportation controlled in the interest of the expansion of our trade, A bill of this character has once passed the house and more than once passed the senate, and I hope that at this session a bill framed on the eame lines and with the same purposes may become a law.

Conserving National Resourcea. In several departments there is presented the ascessity for legislation looking to the further conservation of our national resourcea, and the subject is one of euch importance as to require a more detailed and extended discussion than can be entered upon in this communication. For that reason I shall take an early opportunity to send a special message to con-gress on the subject of the improvement of our waterways, upon the reclamation and irrigation of arid, semi-srid, and swamp lands; upon the preservation of our forests and the reforesting of suitable areas; upon the reclassification of the public domain with a view of aep-arating from sgricultural settlement mineral, coal, and phosphate lands and sites belonging to the government bordering on atroams suitable for the utilization of Water power

Political Contribution. I urgently recommend to congress that inw be passed requiring that candia law be passed requiring that candidates in elections of members of the house of representatives and committees in charge of their candidacy and campaign file in a proper office of the United States government a statement of the contributions received and of the expenditures incurred is the eampaign for such etections and that similar legislation be enacted in respect to all other alections which are constitutionally with's the control of congress. trol of congress.

Savannah, Ga .- Lying about in the wide hallway of their home in the heart of the residence section of Savannah Mrs. Eliza Gribbie, aged 70 years, and her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Ohlander, were found dead, while near then: still living, but with her skull crushed and dying, lay Mrs. Maggie liunter, aged 32.

Mrs. Ohiander had been criminally attacked and then was killed with an nx, while the same weapon brought terrible death to aged Mrs. tiribble, and battered Mrs. Hunter's head until death for her is a matter of a few

The fiend who did such terrible work is a negro. He was seen to enter the house with the ax in his hand, inter to closo the shulters to the windows, as If to screen what lay within, and then to leave imrriedly.

For two days, with a negro woman, he occupied an outhouse on the prem-lie has disappeared, and, urged on hy a reward of $1,000 offered by Mayor George W. Tiedman, the entire city and county forces of officers, with thousands of volunteer searchers, are acouring the city and country for miles around. Excitentcut is intense, and trouble is feared if the negro is caught. Police in automobiles have been searching minutely niong the roads of the county, while posses on foot have combed the places where autos could not go.

Every foot of the Grand Prize Autoinobile course was covered, officers flashing high-powered electric lights into the hedges as they passed. Yamacraw, the negro acction of the rity, was encircled by a cordon of officers and a house-to-house search resulted in the arrest of 150 uegro men, answering in a general way the deseription of the murderer.

The theory of the police is that tho assault upou Mrs. Oblander was planned from the time the ucgro appeared at their home,

The murder of Mrs. Gribble and the wounding of Mrs. Hunter are believed to have been incidental to the main crime in the negro's plan. It is he lleved that Mrs. flunter was the first to fall under the blows, that he then stealihily approached aged Mrs. Gribble from the rear and struck her once equarely on top of the head, the imprint of the blunt ax showing plainly in her blood-matted gray linkr. She evidently was reading when she was killed, as at the aide of her body on the floor were her spectacles and a newspaper.

It is believed that at this moment Mrs. Ohlander appeared and was attacked by the negro and chaked lal., stience. The negro then crushed in her skuil with the ax, closed the shutters to screen his victims and fled.

to-do. Mrs. Ohlander's hushand was formerly a furniture merchant in Brimswick, Ga., and Chattanooga, Tenn. Mrs. Hunter is separated from her husband. He was arrested by the police, told of the murder and guestioned. He was then rejeased had nit efforts of the officers were directed towards the search for the negro

QUARTERLY REVIEW

Sanday School Lesson for Dec. 19, 1909 Specially Arranged for This Paper

GOLDEN TEXT.—"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."—2 Tim. 4-7.

One of the most interesting of the general reviews may be made through references in literature to persons and eventa in the Acts.

Let each scholar have a pencii and paper and note down that to which reference is made in the literary quotations read by the teacher.

Or the references may be given to the class as a whole and the answers be unde orally, each scholar contributing what he knows, till among them all the right answers may he obtained. The review beyond the above should take in the whole Wo of Paul, Extent of Time. From the converslott of Paul to his death at Home, about 30 years. Give the dates. Early Hography. Tell all you can about l'nul's carly life, his relatives. his birthpiace, education, experiences, how he came to be a foreign mission Friends and licipers, from the earl-ills Death at Rome. His Chief Characteristics The Molives and Truths which were the Inspiration of his career as a mistunny cases. The Travel Club should meet at some home, and, with pictures, or sterescope and map, travel with St. Paul and look at scenes amid which he lived and worked.

REAL SOURCE OF STRENGTH

Abounding Love of the Saviour Wherein the Christian Serves and la Served.

Christ's lave does not depend on one falth, but our faith depends on his love. Our service depends on his love. also. We need to feed our faith there If we are to serve him at all. "If any man serve me, let hlm follow me The way to serve is to be a disciple; in sit at his feet, to learn of him. itefore we can do his work we must drink of his spirit and let him teach us his secret. Hefore we can serve film we must be humble enough to jet blin aerve us. "lichoid," anid Thomas Mrs. Gribble was a widow and we'l- n Kempis, "ail things are thine which I have and whereby I serve thee. And yet contrariwise thou rather servest me than I thee."

This is the root of our faith, the source of our strength, and the very heart of our communion: Namely, that the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister. There are other sspects of religion, the fight of faith, the witness to the truth. Christian service, and the whole issue lie practice of Christian love, but this first, and this last, also, and this all the time, that our spiritual life depends utterly on Christ. Creep close to the warmth of his love; get near to the source of nil your Joy and service. Let the Son of Mnn minister to you, serve you with his own sweet courtesy .- Hugh Illack, M. A.

The Life in Christ.

'I am come," said Christ, "that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." The world does not realize it-but "to five is Christ"; that is, to know and serve Christ is really and truly to live: whereas the service of the world und self is mere existence. So far from being a cramping, restrictive influence, allegiance to Christ is an introduction to an infinitely wider and fuller experience. / "All things are yours, and ye are Christ's, and Christ in God's." To see life in its true sense is to realize its expanding possibilities as the grace of God enlarges its scope in the realm and service of God everything abounds-love abounds; grace abounds: life abounds.

Evidence of the Father's Love. We ought not to he surprised ut the coming of sorrow or suffering, it is a part of our common lot, to be accepted ciradidiy and to be borne bravely. Let none of us conclude in causequence of pain that God is not good. that He is not wise, and that He has censed to love His child, for nothing could be farther from the fact. He is the sum of all that is good. His plens never misearry, and sorrow is to the child of God an exalted evidence of the Pather's love.

It is reported that there is a great lack of candidates for the ministry in the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotla, Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Prince Edward island. In the growing west there is said to be a demand for and were it not for the supplies recelved each year from England many pusiorates would remain empty

Some people get so little out of religion because they are so navious to g ' so much for themselves.

NE bright, sunny morning in the month of Adar, at the end of winter, shortby after the little town of In Jinica, was naiir, there trooped from the village a crewd of merry children, laughing for sheer with the song of dancing sunbeams. llunning and skipping niong the road they went, bitthe and gay, until they came to a great tree hy the roadside, where they stopped, and clusiering about a child in their midsi, proceeded to do n strninge

nappiness, as if their hearts sang

They cast their mantics and tunies from them to the ground and prostrated themselves before the one in their midst; then left him. and, running into a field, gathered flowers. He that sat alone, a pensive lock upon his youthful face, had the appearance of an angel.

Soon the little playmates, their arms inden with biossoms, returned, and weaving a wreath of glory tiowers, erowned his hesd.

Into his hands they placed a scep ter of burning giadioms. And abou. him they joyously scattered the fresh, edorous blooms, and while smiled upon them they proclaimed the little playmate, Jesus, the son of the village earpenter, their king.

While they delighted in their worship of their illtic playmate, along the road in the distance could be seen two men coming, with heads sorrowfully beut, carrying between them the dead body of a boy.

"What has happened?" the children cried.

"Alas!" responded one of the men, the child was playing in the forests yonder and methinks, like many boys, robbed the nests of some little "Presently, climbing a tree, he did put his hand into the nest, and lo! there was hidden a poisonous serpent, that sank its fangs into his flesh. He auffered terrible agony and, sliding from the tree, lay until he died. There we found him.

"Come," the boys said, "nnd tell our king."

Hefore the crowned one they paused and told the story. Rising, he said: "follow me."

Silently they wended their way back to the woods. "Lesd us to the tree," said the child king. And there he paused.

"Ob, treacherons serpent, I command thee to come down," he called. And lo! nhove the nest appeared n venomous head, and soon the long. glistening body of a deadly snake came writing down the trunk.

"Go, suck from that child's hand all the poison thou didst place therein from thy fangs."

To the minnzement of the behelders, who sink on their knees, the acreent obeyed. Then, drawing away, it writhed in the agony of its own poisou and shiveled to death.

"Arise," said the child, laying his soft hand on the face of the one who seemed dend.

A moment passed. Those nearly looked on brentblessly. Then the face of the dead boy broke into a smile, as though he were having piensant dreams, and he opened his eyes.

It is related in the Arabic Gospei of the infancy that afterward the boy, Simon Zeloies, became one of the disciples of Jesus.

Of the days and deings of the boy Jesus in Nazareth the four gospels tell us comparatively little. It was natural, therefore, that about this unknown existence of the Adorable Child the Christians of the early church deeply pondered and that the rich imaginations of medieval times should have woven a vesture of traditionary lore.

The holy family returned from Egypt when Jesus was old enough to walk. In many of the old pictures we see the Divine Child leading a mule or clinging close to his mother. Of that early life in the land of the Pyramids, too, early tradition has woven a pleasing inbric of legends

Among the oldest of these is the nuclent belief that whenever the blessed Mary placed the clothing of the holy bake upon trees to dry the barren limbs burst into Another is that whet the child wandered into the foresi, where lions and panthers and all manner of wild beasts lived, they came forth to do him homage.

Sill another, that, during the flight from liethlebem, when ficrod pursued them, mountains opened to receive Joseph and Mary and the holy babe into a secure refuge; that on hot days, as they reposed under trees, the bougha bent over to shield them from the sun, and that as they passed along flowers sprang up in their pathway from the arld sand, and that the barren desert bloomed where they passed it.

It is told that when they journeyed through a forest all the trees bowed low in worship of the Holy One that passed hy, and that only one tree-the aspen-held aloof, proud and scoreful. It is also reinted that the bahe gazed upon the tree and that, overcome with terror, it began to tremh!e, and has tremhled ever since.

Only the aspen stood erect and free, Scorning to join the volceless worship pure; furt see, he cast one look upon the tree, Struck to the heart, she trembled evermore.

It is also told that when the holy family came in sight of the spiritax the great heast told the eiernal secret, and as they passed the tempies the old gods fell from their thronea.

And, coming nigh to On.
Where stands the house of fla, its mighty god,
Cut in black porphyry, prodigious, feured,
Fell from his seat.

Some writers of old say that the holy child never went to school They love to write of his wandering aione into the forests and inlking to the birda and inseeis. And they tell bow dumh beasts were endowed with speech when he was with them.

Many old legends concern the early schooling of the boy Chrisi. It is related that when a child he was taken to Znccheus, who began to try to teach him the niphabet. "My teacher," the unrvelous hoy is said to have uttered, "thou wouldst leach me, but I shall teach thee." And then, while the old man listened, thunderstruck, he repeated an aiphabet which the other had never learned. He told Zaccheus he had ilved from all all things. Zacnmnzed, chens.

(parting by NENTERESTEIN)

declared he could tench the child nothing. Some of the legends, as unworthy as the minds that created them, tell that the child struck his teacher dead. Others tell of his inflicting playmstes with denth and blindness. in the world of legendary lore, where one finds stories ingenuously simple and charming, it is to be expected, also, that there are crude and eruel traditions. According to some stories, the children of Nazareth must have found Jesus a wonderful plsymate. There was hardly any wish of theirs which he did not fulfill. One day, it is told, some of the little ones wished for fruit.

"Oh, how I would like nn npple!" said one.

"And I some figs!" rejoined another. "How I would love some citron and grapes!" quoth

Jesus looked upon them and they nil seemed so bungry and so anxious that he unde a sign in the air and spoke a mystic word. And lo! A green spront curled from the ground. Pale green icaves burst forth. The plant rose up and up and up.

"Oh!" gasped nll the children with grent wonder, as before their gaze the plant rose, higher and higher, spreading out limbs-growing larger and stronger, and blooming with flowers. Then the tree, as they looked, hore fruit-npples and clirons, and grapes and figs and whitever their hearts wished. llere is nnother story of those childhood days:

A house was being built near the small and modest home of the holy family. One day a great upronr arose and Joseph, stepping from his carpenter shop, snw that a mnn lmd wnllen from the roof and had been killed.

"Aias! Mary," he said, entering the shop, where Jesus was playing, "a man has fallen and broken his iimbs; methinks he is dend." Springing from the floor, the child, with an expression of great solicitude on his face, rushed into the street. The ilttle crowd parted before him.

He peered into the white fnee of the dead man. Then his voice rnng clear and sweet:

"I say unto thee, nrise and do thy work," The dend man's eyes opened, the blood disnppeared from his face and his injuries healed. And be nrose and weut buck to his task.

At another time Jesus was playing with some children on a roof-one of those simple, childish games like that of "tng" to-dny. The ehlldren were very happy until one, falling at full length, went tumhling over the parapet. A cry arose. Peering over the stone wall, the face of Jesus turned white-his little playmate was dead.

luagine his distress when the purents of the child appeared and accused Jesus of having pushed the little playmute over the wall! Imagine the anguish of Joseph and Mary at the grave accusation! Then Jesus, turning to the dead child, called:

"Zeno! Zeno! Arise! Arise, Zeno, and tell them if I cast thre down." And Zeno arose, laughing, elnsping and kissing the hand of Jesus, murmitring tenderly, gratefully:

"No, vo! Thou didst not cast me down." Until his manhood, when he began his mission, it is believed he piled the trade of earpenter. Many, indeed, are the stories of his life in the earpenter shop of Naz-

THE CHILDHOOD OF CHIELS. Many are the tales they tell of the wonderful things he made when he was hut a little hoy. Precocious he must have been, and early he hecame indispensable to his foster father, Joseph.

Joseph, we learn, from these legends, was none too good a carpenter-that is, judged by the modern standnrda of esrpentering. Often be would eut pieces of wood that were too long or too short, for his means of measurement were faulty. What, then, did Jesus do hut take the wood and stretch it or shorten it to the desired

In those days, it is related, Joseph was awarded a comtulssion to make a throne for a king at Jerusalem. It was to be an elaborate affair, as all thrones are, with great nrms and twisted legs and grolesque earvings-ono of those things only kings like to sit in.

Jesus spent much time watching Joseph hewing and carving the wood. Joseph worked patiently from morning until uight and the work required two whole years. one end of the throne, while he took bold of the other. Both pulled, and behold! the throne assumed the proper size. One Sabbath morning, with half-dozen playmates, the cbild Jesus, one old iegend runs, went to plsy by the banks of the River Jordan. There had been a heavy raln the night before, and the tall trees were still dripping and the sand was wet. Sitting on the sand, the little ones began to fashion, childrenwisc, animsls of various kinds.

Jesus, fashioning dogs and eats and all manner of wlid things, raised his hand and spoke-and, lo, the animals of sand lived and moved. The children shouted. Their laughter of delight rang through the fresh morning air. Some of the animals ran away, others were changed into sand agaln. Then digging his small hands lato the sand, the chlid said:

"I'll make 12 sparrows." And be sat them in a row before him.

By this time severnt Pharisec who had seen the children playing happliy on the Sabbath, returned with Joseph, whom they said should censure Jesus.

Thou are breaking the Sabbath my child," said the old man. The child pondered, looked at the birds of his creation, then rising Clapped Itis hands and lot They chirruped, spread their wings and flew away.

In these old legends there is a great deal of the functial, the legend of the boy and the nnimals of sand shows the quaint concelts of the early Christians, who delighted in miracles and whose imagination was excited by this unknown period of the Saviour's life.

One can well imagine him as a child wandering away from Nazareth, all alone, and sitting by the Jordan or forest streams and com muning of the great things that eamo to him.

He could not have been like other children, for he was wise beyond his years. One enn see him, as fnir as the lilles and roses themselves, caressing the flowers ns hepassed by in the meadows of Ju dea, and of his sitting erowned in an surcole of sunbeams, listening to the divine rnpture of the hirds singing their morning Lymns.

He must often have been nione for with the petty quarreis of the other children of the town, with the little rivairles of his relatives. he could have had little sympathy. Doubtless as a child, his poet's soul soared into the skies, and his seer's vision saw the future in the cumu-lus clouds. All great souis itve alone, and are ioneiy in the nildst of men. Ahout a beautiful life humanity loves to huild legends, and the simple life which leads to spirltual greatness must to men be made unusual with a halo of miracies. Many steries are told of the child Jesus having raised people from the desd in the little known days of his ehildhood. It is related, too, that when his parenta took him to Jerusalem-on the same journey when he had the famous discussion with the learned doctors in the temple-he paused at the right of Jerusalem, and a spir-It of prophecy revealed to him Its doom.

Success and Education.

The little book "Who's Who in America" contains life sketches of nearly 8,000 persons that have won distinction in some line of noble endeavor. It is very interesting to know to what extent their success came from education, and we may get at the facts in this way:

There were, according to the last census, about 41,000,000 people in the United States over twenty-one years of age. They are divided into four Classes mount as ronaws;

Class 1-Without school training	5,000,000
Clase 2—With only common school training	33,000,000
Class 3-With common and high school training	2,000.000
Class 4—With college and higher education	1,000,000
Class T With conege and might

Now, in which of these classes do we find the 8,000 persons who have won distinction?

In	Class	1-Among	the	5,000,000 wa	find							31
In	Class	2-Among	the	33,000,000 we	find							808

i	The	chance vot	ı edy	e veur child	will depend	l on	the	eluss	you	put	him	ln.

From the above figures it will be seen that the unedneated child has only one chance in 150,000 of attaining distinction. But a common school education will increase his chances four times. A high school training will increase the chances of the common school boy twenty-three times, giving him eighty-seven times the chance of the uneducated boy. And a college education will increase the chances of the high school boy nine times, giving him 219 times the chances of the common school boy and more than 800 times the chances of the untrained.

What Education Is.

Education is preparation. As a man looks back over his life he sees many things he would like to do over again. He is sure he could do them better next time. And if he should ever be in the same circumstances again his experiences would teach him to do better than before, But experience is like stern light on a bout- it lights the path behind and not in front.

Education makes a man a better farmer or storckeeper, as well as a better doctor or lawyer. But, more important than all this, education makes n man a blgger, bronder, better man, more able to enjoy life and to help others to enjoy life. And this is the really important thing. It has been said truly, "It is not so important to make a living as to live." Some people are so busy making a living that they never take time to live.

The famil aim of education is to make a man's mind and soul grow, to lift him far above being a mere animal that is content when its isolily wants are entistical Education is truly preparation for imsiness; but, better still, it is preparation for life. . .
